

Working on the Comms Training project has provided me an experience in learning advanced research techniques and how to use those techniques to write a high-level outline to create training modules. This project has also allowed me to get a background in different communication technologies. Altogether, this project has allowed me to get real life experience regarding how to research a topic that you don't have prior knowledge of and create an outline based off the research. These skills will significantly apply to my coursework and future endeavors professionally.

Thanks Safe-D,
Abhay Kaniattu